Santa Fe Business Incubator is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization serving Santa Fe and Northern New Mexico. Since its founding the SFBI has been home to over 170 companies who have helped create more than 1,500 jobs. Marie Longserre has served as President & CEO since inception.

"If you're starting (or thinking of starting) a business, call the good people at SFBI. The incubator exists to help you, and they do a great job at it. Lots of excellent free workshops, help with the dizzying array of things needed to start and grow a company, and plentiful coffee. If you're an entrepreneur and don't get involved with SFBI, you're at a disadvantage, plain and simple."

Technology Category

Tech companies at the Santa Fe Business Incubator (SFBI) take part in quarterly Advisory Council Meetings with local experts and resource providers. SFBI also provides executive level business coaching, work-shops, seminars, and other programs to help accelerate the growth of early stage Tech companies. SFBI's position in the ecosystem allows Tech companies access to investors, collaborators, and potential partners.

The Santa Fe Business Incubator has created programs specifically aimed at addressing the challenges faced by early stage Tech Companies in Northern New Mexico.

The Code 4 Community hacknight takes place monthly in the Incubator's coworking space. Code 4 allows professionals and beginners the opportunity to network, ask and answer questions, and receive technical assistance on their current projects

Technology Companies at the Santa Fe Business Incubator have access to these state and local incentives:

- Innovation Vouchers
- Job Training Incentive Grants
- New Mexico Angel Investment Tax Credits
- Research & Development Tax Credits
- Catalyst Fund

Tech Check is monthly newsletter written by the Santa Fe Business Incubator specifically for technology companies in Northern New Mexico. Tech Check highlights funding opportunities, sites and services of particular interest, and tech ecosystem news

The Santa Fe Business Incubator Campus

The Santa Fe Business Incubator has a 30,000 square foot campus less than 20 minutes from the Santa Fe Airport, I-25 on ramp, and the Santa Fe Plaza. The campus includes private office, lab and light manufacturing units along with conference rooms, break rooms, courtyard, common areas and a new MIT affiliated Digital Fabrication Lab (Fab Lab). The SFBI's campus offers the perfect environment to launch a tech startup.

Coworking at the Incubator

SFBI offers flexible and affordable coworking options to fit your lifestyle. From a $75 10 visit punch card to a semi-private cubicle space SFBI has a coworking option for you. SFBI also has a reciprocal coworking agreement with Project Y In Los Alamos and Fat Pipe in Albuquerque
